

Opis choroby *

Definicja

Satoyoshi syndrome is a rare, multisystemic autoimmune disease mainly characterized by intermittent painful muscle spasms, alopecia (totalis or universalis in most cases) and long-lasting diarrhea that could lead to malnutrition, growth retardation, and amenorrhea. Secondary bone deformities and various endocrine anomalies may also be associated. Antinuclear antibodies are reported in many cases.

Dane

Klasyfikacja

Choroba

Synonimy

Komuragaeri disease

Kod ORPHA

3130

Kod OMIM

600705

Kod ICD10

M35.8

Kod ICD11

-

---

*Źródło

orphanet