

Opis choroby *

Definicja

Diprosopus is a rare, life-threatening developmental defect during embryogenesis, and a subtype of conjoined twins, characterized by partial or complete duplication of the facial structures on a single head, neck, trunk and body. It may be associated with congenital anomalies involving the cardiovascular, gastrointestinal, respiratory and central nervous systems. Cleft lip and palate have been reported in rare cases.

Dane

Klasyfikacja	Synonimy
Wada morfologiczna	Craniofacial duplication Diprosopia
Kod ORPHA	Kod OMIM	Kod ICD10
1681	-	Q89.4
Kod ICD11
-

*Źródło

orphanet