

Opis choroby *

Definicja

Twin twin transfusion syndrome (TTTS) is a rare condition seen in twin monochorionic pregnancies, typically developing during the 15-26 week gestation period and usually due to unbalanced intertwin placental anastomoses, where an unequal exchange of blood between twins causes oligohydramnios in one sac and polyhydramnios in the other which can lead to a high perinatal mortality rate and a high rate of disability in survivors if left untreated

Dane

Klasyfikacja

Choroba

Synonimy

Feto-fetal transfusion syndrome

Zespół przetoczenia krwi między płodami

Kod ORPHA

95431

Kod OMIM

-

Kod ICD10

O43.0

Kod ICD11

JA8A.0

*Źródło

orphanet