

Opis choroby *

Definicja

A rare, usually, sporadic congenital anomaly that is more commonly seen in females than in males (2:1), where the nose is blocked by bony or soft tissue formed during embryologic development on only one side (more commonly on the right side) and which is characterized by nasal obstruction and rhinorrhea, usually presenting at birth but that may go undetected until a respiratory infection aggravates the condition.

Dane

Klasyfikacja

Podtyp kliniczny

Kod ORPHA

137917

Kod OMIM

-

Kod ICD10

Q30.0

Kod ICD11

LA70.2

---

*Źródło

orphanet